He later moved to the Philippines in the late 1840s. In 1850 he had constructed a fine house for himself at the corner of the Baybayen and J.M. Ledesma Streets, which became known as the "Carlos III house" (the owner). Holder married Aimee Gutierrez and they had three children, Frederick, Juan and Maria Loyola. Aimee died in the late 1860s; and in 1870 Holder married a local woman, Maria Luisa Sanchez, and moved to Herran. In Herran he erected a fine house in the center of the town, near Plaza Mayor. He became a prominent landowner, owning of land, by 1890, in the town of Herran. During the Spanish Civil War, the town of Herran was occupied by the forces of the Republic during which time the house was seized by the Spanish forces. Frederick Holder was a supporter of the 1890 Revolution in the Philippines. When the revolution succeeded, his house was again seized by the 3e33713323
