What's New In?

Re-designed hexagonal clock as you already know but with different design. By default the clock displays in the moment. The second hand moves with the time and the date (example : 10/07/2012 03:58)and the second hand always moves starting on the hour. On the toolbar you find a control panel with options for restarting the clock. With this options the date will be set to the minute. You can also set one of the 7 colors by pressing the button on the toolbar. The hexagonal graphic is drawn automatically for the hexagon. If you want to change the border, you can change the hexagon graphic by clicking on the buttons and choosing your graphic. - You can also adjust the second hand by pressing the button from the toolbar. - The program uses asynchronous refresh with a timer. If you press the button X-a Info, when the program is open, the second hand of the clock starts moving. - You can save the clock to your desktop by pressing the button X-a Save -X-a Info (More options) Version: 1.1 Requirements: 1.1 Yahoo Widget Engine A clock and calendar with a hexagonal format, based on an idea posted by Marco in the comments for a similar Widget of mine called X-a Info. Now you can have right on your desktop a very well designed digital clock. It looks more like a clock from a science-fiction movie. You will surely like the special design of it.
