answer is to put the text in a link:
Download This is less likely to work with most browsers than an image. A simple image is also likely to work for browsers that don't support download managers. A: This link "ftp://host.com/path/to/file.pdf" worked for me. But others mentioned that the link will not work in all major browsers. However, there is an alternative way to work around that problem. When the file you want to download is too large, you need to use a proxy server. You can configure your browser to allow it to download through a proxy server. The proxy server is a server that requests/sends data for a particular network, which is currently being used by the target server. And the proxy server saves the data sent/received by the target server and returns the download. Just enter the proxy address into your browser and it will work even without the "ftp://host.com/path/to/ 3da54e8ca3
