The Shape Brush Shape tools can fill shapes, remove shapes, create custom shapes, add to existing shapes, and so on. The tools work with different types of paths, including predefined shape paths, closed paths, and even straight lines. You can also create custom shape paths using the Pen tool. You can create perfect circles and rectangles, add shapes to an image, and even use a path to cut an object out of a background. Brush Tool You can use the Brush tool to add or remove color, blur, simulate water, lighten or darken colors, change the brush style, change opacity, and more. It works with both foreground and background colors and is a great tool for adding highlights and shadows. You can also easily isolate portions of an image. The Brush tool gives you a lot of power with many controls and can simulate a range of photographic effects. It has a large palette of colors, gradients, textures, and styles. You can select colors from the image itself, the neighboring pixels, or a color in the palette. You can also do many color operations, and even apply an image filter to a color. Curves Curves and the histogram are two of the most important tools for image adjustment. You can use Curves to change the shape and curve of an image, change color, add or remove color, adjust contrast, and create a range of aesthetic changes. You can also edit images with the histogram and increase or decrease brightness. The Lasso Tool The Lasso tool gives you a lot of power when it comes to isolating or selecting one or many areas of an image. You can use the tool to add a border, create a selection, modify a selection, or edit the shape of an object. You can resize the selection, add or subtract pixels, change the opacity of the selection, make hard or soft selections, add a mask, use the path as a mask, and so much more. The Lasso tool helps you isolate or select areas of an image to change, modify, or add to. It's an essential tool for creating selections, and it's even possible to use a stroke with the selection. The Pen Tool The Pen tool is a vector drawing tool and it's much faster than the Brush tool. You can create freeform lines, curve lines, and even make shapes and text. You can use the Pen tool to add

The Development of Chronic Hydrocephalus after Subarachnoid Hemorrhage in Mice. It has been reported that acute subarachnoid hemorrhage (SAH) is associated with not only an elevated risk for the development of acute hydrocephalus, but also later chronic hydrocephalus (CHC). Whether chronic hydrocephalus (CHC) occurs after SAH in a mouse model remains unknown. The aim of this study was to examine the development of CHC after experimental SAH in mice. We injected choroidal blood in the basal cisterns of mice by a micropipette to mimic SAH. Brains were examined by magnetic resonance imaging at 4 h (acute stage) and 7 days (chronic stage) after injection. We found that blood injection resulted in CHC, as evidenced by an enlargement of the ventricle, brain swelling, and diffuse brain edema in the chronic stage. Neurodegeneration was observed in the ventrobasal areas of the basal forebrain 7 days after SAH in mice. In addition, the degenerating neurons were positive for cleaved caspase-3 and ubiquitin, and microglial activation was observed in the degenerating areas. A significantly increased expression of interleukin-1 $\beta$  was also observed in the degenerating areas after SAH. Taken together, these findings suggested that CHC after SAH in mice may be induced by neuroinflammation, leading to microglial activation and neural degeneration.

Q: Programming a server for multi-master My company is looking for server for doing multi-master replication and we found Apache with mod_dbd. We tried that but when we started to work with mod_dbd we ended up writing our own server from scratch. The problem is that we have to do it in Java. I'm thinking to make this using JBoss/EAP/Glassfish as a container or something else. What would you recommend? Which is the best way to build it? I know there is this tag but I'm not sure that what I want to ask is a good programming question for this site. A: Most serious databases out there support master/slave replication using stored procedures. You should be able to do this with a Java database without much difficulty (at least not with my 5-year-old knowledge of Java). With this support, you can also use transaction semantics with

DEERING, Utah — If you're a Deer catcher, you understand the hunt for this elusive animal isn't one-dimensional. You know the matchmaker between your skills as a hunter and the way animals evolve, and you know the elusiveness of a hapless deer being able to figure out the best possible escape route. It's why you're out here in the middle of the night in the first place. You're also aware of the fact that all of the hunt will be filmed for a local TV show. Taping the show has been a hobby of yours for over a decade now, but you're also trying to bring it to the next level of popularity. You've filmed with multiple cameramen and sound men for years, but this is the first time you're really set up with a crew of its own, all by your own accord. You're about to shoot a profile of a hunter, of course. "Man, I'm excited," you say with a wide grin. "To be honest, I was kind of nervous at first." However, the aforementioned anxieties are soon replaced by a sense of pride after meeting the cameraman. "Oh, I like this guy," you tell yourself, laughing. "He's an excellent choice." With that comes a few moments of nerves. "I really have no idea what I'm doing out here." "I've never been on a crew before," you tell the cameraman. "I'm kind of scared." "I'm equally as scared," the cameraman responds with a grin. "I'm nervous too. I'm just looking forward to tomorrow." You attempt to wipe your own smile clean away with a smile of your own. "I'm so excited," you tell yourself. And there it is. The best way to make this better. Excitement, excitement, excitement. If you can't get excited about the food you're eating, what's the point of anything in life? "I'm nervous," you respond to
