Briefly: Discovery Channel has ordered a series from producers Fuzzy Door and Ant Farm based on the work of Alexandra Deller, The New York Times best-selling author of "Am I Normal?" and "The Human Zoo." Deller's book, which was published last fall, delves into depression and mental illness, and is based on her own experiences of depression as well as those of friends and family. "We are thrilled to be working with Discovery to showcase the complex issues surrounding mental health in a raw, honest, and entertaining way," said Deller and Alexandra Deller, the authors of the book. "By exploring depression in a new and unflinching way, we hope we'll be able to break down the stigma and to increase public awareness about the challenges and beauty of this most personal journey." Fuzzy Door and Ant Farm, a non-profit organization launched in 2011 by Deller and producer Cathy Gerson, are currently in the midst of a Kickstarter campaign to raise funds to make the first two episodes of "The Alexandra Deller Show." As part of the campaign, the pair seek to shoot one episode in each of the U.S. and Canada, and have already raised about $44,000 with 24 days remaining. LAS VEGAS — An apparent suicide bomber attacked a police officer outside the entrance to a crowded hotel in the center of the Israeli city of Haifa Friday, blowing himself up as the police officer fired his weapon and injuring four other people. One person was killed in the blast. Israeli police said that the attacker set off an explosive device that was strapped to his body as he approached the officer, who was slightly wounded in the shooting. It was not clear if the officer was the target of the e79caf774b

All i know is that you need the right hardware, you will need a tool for that (heavy video processing or is it cpu intensive?), and depending on the password you need one or two processes on the computer. thanks much for the help, do you know any sites where i could buy some random hardware to start with and what software would be best for the task? and yes, it must be a hardware-based, i have tried the windows built-in password cracker and that was too slow and would not work for this. Well hello there, i'm havin' some trouble figuring out the right drive that i can use to crack the Alias Contect from Xforce. Do you know a site that sells hardware to crack hashes that are hardware based? I have tried finding one, but i can't. I would really like to get started with Alias Contect
