This app is designed to enable you to understand how your bets are performing, and therefore optimize them. It's in fact a gambling calculator that helps you know how much you need to invest or bet to get an expected return. As usual, it uses a mathematical formula to do its calculations based on odds, but its essence is to present the information in a simple and understandable way, which is why you should definitely try it out. It works in three different ways. The first is based on profitability, the second is based on initial investment, while the third one is based on both profitability and the initial investment. Note that profit is, by default, measured per hour. Let's start by analyzing how the two types of bets are calculated.

1. Profitability This is based on the profitability of a bet. Profitability means how much you can make off your investment, if the bet is successful. If you think about it, when it's profitable, you make money, so betting in a profitable way is obviously something that can't be bad. The profitability of a bet is calculated on the returns per hour. You have three options here:
 - Low profitability: 0.
 - Medium profitability: 1.
 - High profitability: 2.
2. Initial investment This is based on the initial investment you have to pay to make a bet. If your initial investment is lower than 1, then there won't be any return on your money. This means that you have to bet more to get the same results as if you had bet just 1.
3. Profitability + Initial investment This is based on both the profitability and the initial investment to make a bet. The profitability level is the same as for previous entries, while the initial investment is calculated as the percentage of the profitability multiplied by the percentage of the initial investment, with the calculation being done automatically. You can alter all three parameters, even if you are playing for free. Of course, with free bets, you only get to see the results of how profitable they are. Moreover, due to these results, you might find yourself playing more, because the more you are ahead or behind, the more fun it could be.
