What's New in the Breeze Kiosk?

The Breeze Kiosk is a software program that functions as a personal computer for a photobooth. The software is installed and operated entirely on the kiosk's built-in graphical user interface (GUI) and in conjunction with the photobooth control software. It enables attendees to choose between pre-loaded creative content and personalize photos (such as logos, backgrounds, and frames) and prints directly from the kiosk's built-in graphical user interface (GUI). The ability to display full-size photos directly from the touchscreen interface, as well as personalize the outcome of the pictures, is the ultimate goal of this technology. Both a photobooth and a printer are integrated into the Breeze Kiosk. The latter offers the option of printing directly from the touchscreen (without an additional equipment such as a scanner or digital camera). The kiosk includes all the professional elements commonly found in photoboos (printer, scanner, cable, monitor, etc.) For complete independence from the manufacturer's computer, the kiosk's CPU is completely closed-source. It does not require any drivers. It relies on Microsoft's Windows Operating System and its drivers. Thus the operating system is key for the correct functioning and the interaction of the photobooth with other peripherals and applications, such as Photoshop® or Flash®. Advantages: Promotes marketing and branding opportunities for the photobooth operators and their sponsors. Offers potential for an alternative advertising and marketing method by complementing traditional forms of promotions such as brochures, postcards, and flyers. Promotes individuality by allowing operators to personalize advertising materials and create promotions that focus on the clientele. Allows for easy-to-use self-promotion on social media sites. The built-in camera allows operators to display live streams of events happening in their photobooth and the respective attendees can virtually share their experience with the built-in webcam. Allows for convenient promotions of non-photobooth events held on the premises. Allows for convenient promotions of non-photobooth events held on the premises. Allows for the customized design of the photobooth control software. Provides the possibility of optimizing advertising and marketing opportunities for exhibitors. Allows for a single-interface control of the photobooth from several computers or smartphones. Supports the use of social media platforms and allows attendees to share pictures with their social networks. Provides the possibility of automatically
