Do I have to use different projects and how can I make it work. I am new to Xamarin and don't understand the way to do this. Thank you A: There is a plugin for Xamarin Studio (Xamarin.Android and Xamarin.iOS) called Xamarin Cross Project Projects which does what you are asking. I use it on my current project and it works quite well. If you have Android Studio installed, it is a really easy time-saver. Otherwise, you could also create Android and iOS projects and use Gradle to create cross-platform projects. Aussie teen to challenge Thai for gold in FIM World Motocross Championship Australian teenager Jackson Grainger is ready to challenge the Thai on Saturday night at Asuit Road Circuit in the first round of the FIM Supercross World Championship. The 18-year-old, who made his pro debut at the weekend, will line up in the Motorcross Australia SX1 Class, to be contested with bikes configured with standard handlebars and an enclosed helmet. Grainger's tough and aggressive riding has seen him bag some impressive results since just 18, which include a second place in the Australia MotoX championship in 2012. He has represented Australia four times at the Under 18 world motocross championships in the MX2 class, winning in 2007 and 2009, and picked up a silver medal in 2013. Grainger now plans to make his World MX debut in the FIM World Championship, which will

We didn't catch a lot of fish, as we've been dealing with a lot of blues and one day dreamy, but that didn't matter, what did matter was that we spent the afternoon watching and listening to local fishermen and land owners display their spectacular seaward-oriented live bait on their docks and piers. We were glued to the action and were completely taken in by this fantastic spectacle. First we sat in a metal folding chair in the rain. If you looked down you might have seen a guy feeding a pike bait to a harbor seal; the seal jumped in the air like it was a huge helium balloon. Then a man was adjusting an underwater speaker
