make a bootable Windows 8 usb stick? I've been using an OEM version of Windows 8 for a while, and have been able to make a bootable disk. I did that by following the instructions on MSDN, but now I want to switch to Ubuntu. My problem is that I don't know how to proceed with a Windows 8 USB stick. Trying to use dd to make it bootable, I get a Format Disk error saying that Windows 8 is not supported yet. Even changing to a live USB stick with Rufus has failed, or it

crashes before I get the Ubuntu GUI. What can I do now to make a bootable Windows 8 USB stick from Windows 8, that will also boot on a different machine? I have a legit copy of Windows 8, and I want to keep it. I just want to try out Ubuntu. A: The way I've managed to do it is to use the open source Rufus tool, which works fine with Windows 8, and create a live USB stick. To create a Windows 8 live USB stick on a Windows 8 machine, follow these instructions. When using the Linux version of Rufus to create a live USB stick, Windows 8 won't allow the partition to be formatted by selecting the first partition, as the easiest option is to select the free space. To avoid this, click the first unallocated partition, right click and select format. Prognostic significance of vasculature in squamous cell carcinoma of the anal canal.
