• Battle In Battle, powerful boss monsters appear in increasingly large numbers. Take into account all of the physical attacks, sub-attacks, an attack's original stage, and final stage, as well as magic and items. So before you begin, be prepared for a realistic fight. When you perform an attack, a prompt appears over the enemy character's head, and as the prompt appears, you can perform a sub-attack. In this battle, it's essential that you can execute sub-attacks repeatedly without being interrupted.

• Equipment Management Equip weapons, armor, magic, and items in all of your characters. You can freely change the rank of the item. In addition, if you find items useful, keep them as you explore, and the items can be shared with other characters. Equip weapons and armor according to the conditions and situation. Additionally, you can exchange weapons or armor with others, and carry an item of another character's. You can also carry items in your characters' backpacks, and use items as you see fit.

• Combat While Walking You can use items as you walk, so you can still use special moves and buffs to engage enemies while in combat mode. Attack priority is according to the distance between the enemy characters. You can also change the order of the attacks you perform by pressing the "E" button. Equip two or more characters and take turns in battle. A maximum of six people can fight together in one party.

• Party Management You can support your party members with members in a party, and each party member can use items and use special moves together. You can switch between party members easily in battle by pressing the "I" button, and you can change a character's name and the party's name as well. Choose one of the four party members that will accompany you, and level them up with tasks and quests.

• 3D Fighting System Fight like in a TV drama with the 3D fight system. You can use attack motions from the direction you look at the enemy. You can view a enemy from all angles. The 3D fight system determines the action of the enemy while you are holding the cursor in front of you.
