Download

HyperMotion + Matchday The engine collects and analyzes player movement data from over 10 player templates — including five attackers, five central defenders and five full backs. These player templates, capturing the characteristics and movements of over 3,000 real-life player movements, are key to FIFA's AI engine. FIFA 22's AI engine was built using a new "HyperMotion" technology. Through real-time comparisons of real player data with player movements in the game engine, the engine will make on-pitch game management decisions smarter and more realistic. With this technology, FIFA will be able to identify key moments in a match with more accuracy, allowing matchday coaches to make on-pitch game management decisions. For example, by automatically identifying key moments like aerial duels, counters and penetrations, AI will be able to make more intelligent decisions about taking players on, releasing them and making attacking changes. With this new technology, coaches can also make more accurate tactical switches in half-time, allowing for more rhythm and fluidity in their half-time substitutions and for full-back changes to have an even greater impact on the match. FIFA Analyzing millions of player movements (including finishing attempts, composure, possession, ball distribution, support play and run stats) will allow the engine to make decisions like carding, positioning, probability of possession and taking players on quicker. To create more realistic-looking players, the engine will accurately blend data from multiple player templates to create believable and diverse on-pitch performances.

Artificial Intelligence for Team Behaviour FIFA 23 will introduce a number of systems built on the FIFA 22 engine to improve how AI makes decisions about player behaviour and team dynamics. Free Kicks – Players who receive a free kick will now be able to score a goal from free kicks, which will cause AI to initiate a more realistic free kick-attempt mechanic. Assist Attempts – Games will now identify more accurate and realistic chance-creation chances for teammates, with defenders reacting more intelligently when being put under pressure and teammates trying to score for their side. Free Kick Creativity – Players' actions when taking a free kick will now be reflected in a more interactive way. When attacking teams protect the ball at the kick-off, in-$\sum_{i=1}^n i^2 = \frac{n(n+1)(2n+1)}{6}$  for  $n \geq 1$  How I start and how I do my proof?

A: We can start using ineq. triangle on  $(i+1)^2$  and  $i^2$ . Thus:  $\sum_{i=1}^n (i+1)^2 = \sum_{i=1}^n i^2 + 2 \sum_{i=1}^n i + 1$

$\frac{n(n+1)(2n+1)}{6} +$
