Using colloidal stabilisation in the development of novel drug delivery systems. The increased demand for patient-specific drug delivery systems leads to a requirement for novel technologies to produce complex shaped implants. Surfaces are often engineered by the addition of physicochemical components, such as biomolecules, to a colloidal dispersion. These biomolecules can be used for targeted drug delivery, mineral binding, haemostasis or catalysis, and can be coated by any technique such as interfacial deposition, precipitation or entrapment. In this review, colloidal stabilisation methods are discussed for their use as a building block for the production of nanocomposite drug delivery systems. A number of drug delivery systems are highlighted where colloidal stabilisation has been used as an effective addition to other technologies to produce drug delivery devices. When Grace is 17, her parents decide to move to a new town in the middle of the Scottish Highlands. The school and environment seem an awful lot like Vancouver where Grace was raised. But living this new life with her father has its complications. And her friends, especially her best friend, Ailsa, become much more than just friends. The book is written from Grace's perspective as she tries to navigate the differences in gender roles and the challenges of moving to a new place. It is filled with drama, questions about family and the life we choose. What are your thoughts? What was your experience with the book? 2 comments: This is a very difficult subject. I think it's a great book and I think it's really helped me to understand more. The other day I was on a bus in New York with a woman who's mother had just died. We talked about the woman's loss and I saw a little bit of myself in her. It's strange and sad how that happens. Thanks for the comment! I know what you mean, this book was a struggle. But I think you know that by now. And yes, it is a subject that can be really confusing! I agree with you, it is very sad too.
