I've been told I should be upgrading to EE 2.0.0. What are the pros and cons of running on EE 2.0.0 when compared to upgrading to EE 1.9.4? I'm worried I'll miss a lot of things. A: Pros Migrate your data using the built-in import/export feature The upgrade is very easy, even for a non-EE-programmer No need to worry about missing legacy features Cons Some plugins are likely to require a lot of updating/rework to make them work with the new API Excerpt from the documentation: 2.0.0 was released on the day of a new release of ExpressionEngine, so some plugins will need to be updated to the latest version of their code in order to continue to work. More Information Other important points: Interaction Known issues Be careful with your queries before creating views for your content: the new API may have changed the behavior of some of the output formatters; for example, if your views don't add a space character between tables, they may not have one anymore. If this happens, you have to add it manually, not by using a template tag. If you were playing Dota 2 this year, chances are good that you were playing with at least one copy of The International 2018 ticket. The in-game purchasable item, which included a real, physical ticket to the Dota 2 world championship, was a major part of Valve's esports strategy for 2018. But only a few days after TI8 began, Valve announced that the ticket would no longer be a purchasable item. "It was a design mistake to charge players for an item that is not required to participate in any way," Valve said in a blog post. However, not every competitor was happy about this change. Several teams, most notably Team Secret, organized anti
