June 29, 2010. *349 Alane D. Melnick, Decatur, for appellant. Jewel Charmain Cox, Dist. Atty., Zebulon, for appellee. BARNES, Judge. W.M. Kelley appeals from his convictions of burglary, enticing a child for indecent purposes, and several traffic offenses. He raises three arguments for reversal, including that the trial court erred in denying his pre-trial motion to suppress and in failing to consider his motion for a directed verdict of acquittal as to the child enticement count. We find no error and affirm. Evidence adduced at the suppression hearing showed that on January 5, 2008, officers were called to the home of Kelley's ex-wife. Kelley's sister-in-law R.S. told police that she had observed Kelley in the home and saw him go into a bedroom that was "pretty messy." R.S. had also seen Kelley with a child, E.W., and she told the
