This book is not about Neo, but, it is about everyone! If you take anything from this book, it is that there is life, or more accurately, life, or existence, that is on every level. Where, do you look? Where, do you focus? Does it simply change for you as you grow and learn? For some, you look to those in authority, to society, to those who have long lives; but, for others, you look for the opposite to power. For still others, it is simply life. There are those, like

Neo, who still wait for the other shoe to drop, and then think what he was told to be true, is nothing more than suppressed opinion. For others, the Bible, in itself, is life. It is a constant, although sometimes we don't recognize it. I would say, that's what this book is about: for others, it is life. For those who have love, it is life. For those who have faith, it is life. For those who have money, it is life. It is life, and yet, it is so obvious to many, that it is not! I ask that if you have a notion or opinion on the following, and wish to share it, share it in the discussion. It is our natural right to make choices, and live the life we choose. Our belief in God, and our prayer to him, is life. Don't be afraid to think it.

is planning to make his return to the Dublin team in the current campaign. He spoke to the League's leading local newspaper, the Evening Echo's editorial team. On five seasons of international football, Darius Friend has played a key role for his country's performances. He showcased his skills to the world when having a dream debut for the Boys in Green against Australia last year in Croke Park. However, after going through back-to-back tests with Seán O'Brien in the championship, he has gone AWOL for a month - or more. Friend joined the Liverpool club in 2007 and made his first appearance for the Irish side against Wales in a warm-up game earlier this year. The Gaelic Athletic Association has advised the Player to return to duty in time for games against France and Scotland this summer. Having undergone surgery, Friend always feared being sidelined for the start of a new League campaign. "It is just something that will be sorted out and I am 100% fit and raring to go. Like everyone else, my campaign got a bit delayed," he said in today's edition of the Evening Echo. Friend was out for the last month but is struggling with his shoulder injury. He also praised Liam Tuohy, who has filled his place in midfield for this year's Leinster Challenge. "Liam is excellent, he has done a great job for the lads. You can see him as a player in the UEFA Champions League and he has lifted the dressing rooms with his performances. "He has had a great last few years and it is an honour to play with him. We have brought someone in who can be similar and then of course I look after myself. We have a great squad. We have strength in all areas," said the Dublin GAA central player of the year in 2010. "I have spoken to PJ (Paul Jordan), the manager, and I spoke to the physiotherapist about how to get myself back fit and safe. I will be back and I am impatient. Everyone is eager to start a new thing with Dublin and it was a shame but it gave me some time to rest. "But now I am raring to go and looking forward to the summer. I am going to be ready to be back on a pitch next week. It has been frustrating watching all the games from the stands but it is great to hear the atmosphere and atmosphere was an issue

Rage Wars is a multiplayer game for the iPhone/iPod touch where you can shoot zombies as they approach your bombarded face with all kinds of weapons you can unlock in different levels. If the zombies are too much, you can even blow them up like a bomb, leaving them stuck in random places! You can play story mode as well, you have to kill all the enemies as you go through levels. The game is more or less like Call of Duty (well, call of duty to some) but you can't pick up the weapons you have to be blown off in their hand. Controls: - Tilt to steer - it's not so hard but sometimes you have to turn the device quickly - Swipe to shoot - hold for auto-aim - Tilt for aiming weapons - an actual feature - Pinch to jump - make it work! - Fullscreen option

Big Boss, the leader of the International Mob, and all of his men are being held hostage in a restaurant for their entire crew is being taken away. Finally Big Boss is going to get some peace. Things don't quite go to plan though, someone has been using his personal bank card and not telling the authorities. Big Boss then alerts the authorities and the hostage takers get into a shootout. Big Boss, his men and the police inspector then take positions and they begin to exchange gunfire. As this is going on Big Boss tells his men to move into different positions to deter the attackers from learning their position and uses his submachine gun to shoot the thugs in the head. The next day Big Boss calls the authorities to return him the card that was used and to get a fingerprint to confirm that he was the owner. Once he is done with this Big Boss tells his men to quickly load the goods they have been holding onto a van. As they run out the police inspector starts running in their direction. It doesn't take them too long before Big Boss and his men hear the sirens and they start running to the restaurant. Big Boss is looking over at the police inspector and orders the crew to start working on the van that
