Burials The Wardsville Church Cemetery is the final resting place for several hundred individuals. It is not known how many graves have yet to be marked in the cemetery. Also, many of the gravesites are marked in different ways. Please help us keep the information about the cemetery clean by keeping stones on the ground.

History of the Cemetery Before the first cemetery was established in Wardsville there was a "Ridge Mount Cemetery". Formal burial was restricted to the Ridge Mount Cemetery but a handful of new burials were recorded on January 9, 1882. The Wardsville Church Cemetery as it is known today was established on February 27, 1908. The headstones are arranged in four sections from West to East: North Section - Married South Section - Illegitimate East Section - Children West Section - Burial of Wardsville citizens. Members of the community and the family were buried in the cemetery until 1908 when the Nichols family from

Galena Grove donated land in the back part of the cemetery for their family cemetery. The cemetery is divided into quarters and then into sections. It includes some nice headstones that are very unusual. The cemetery was added to the National Registry of Historic Places on February 11, 1983. To see the inscriptions on the memorials at the cemetery, follow this link. For more information on burials, see Cemetery Records: Burials. Patient Burial Facilities

The funeral home near the cemetery has been provided in accordance with a requirement in the State of Illinois that funeral homes provide a burial facility as a substitute for cremation. Lake County, Illinois Ordinance
