The Healthy Incident of Wealthy and Underprivileged (HITWU) Published on February 17, 2010. SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 17, 2010 /PRNewswire/ — The Healthy Incident of Wealthy and Underprivileged (HITWU) campaign is a large-scale awareness effort to enlighten the public on the abuse of antidepressant medications. After a two-year study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association in 2009, psychiatrists and other medical doctors are now aware of a widespread problem. This is a major breakthrough, as many scientists and writers have been trying to awaken the public to the hazards of over-prescribing of antidepressants. The media is learning of this issue and the public is becoming aware of this danger. The prescription drugs industry has been happy to fund the "sleeping giant" as it called this movement. The Scientific Council for Organic Medicine (SCOM) notes that antidepressants are overprescribed by as much as 30 times, according to the FDA. "Up to 30% of American adults take antidepressant medications," noted Dr. John Lee, research director of the SCOM in an interview with the San Francisco Chronicle. "Up to 30% of adult Americans suffer from mental illness. Up to 20% of them take antidepressant medications. This is madness." Prof. Herbert Hyman, a psychiatrist at Rush University, has voiced concerns about the "disturbing" amount of prescriptions for "mental distress" drugs. His concern is that depression is being turned into a
