Identification of ester and acid inhibitors of EPLIN-2 ubiquitination. The ezrin-radixin-moesin (ERM) protein family tethers plasma membrane proteins to the actin cytoskeleton. Overexpression of EPLIN-2, a member of this family, is linked to cancer cell invasion, and phosphorylation of this protein by casein kinase II (CK2) enhances its binding to the GTPase RAC1. EPLIN-2 is also a physiological substrate of the ubiquitin-protein ligase Nedd4-2. Here we identify the lipids and pH-dependent interactions that inhibit EPLIN-2 ubiquitination by Nedd4-2. We find that phosphatidic acid (PA), PA monooxygenase, and the G(i) protein activate CK2. Moreover, PA is itself a potent inhibitor of Nedd4-2-mediated ubiquitination of EPLIN-2 at pH 6.5. These results provide a molecular basis for the unusual capacity of PA to inhibit the ubiquitination of proteins that requires ubiquitin-charged ubiquitin ligases.

What's new in Sprout:

(28/8/17) I decided to write an opinion piece today about the flavour of SkyDrift since the SkyDrift: Gladiator Multiplayer Pack is just a few days away from release. I don't think I ever get sick of talking about the game, so I'll continue what I started last week when I wrote up an in-depth take on what traits are. Today I'll be discussing the trait called Unwind and how it makes playing SkyDrift much more tactical than it first appears to be. But first, the SkyDrift: Gladiator Multiplayer Pack is now live on PC, and remains available on Xbox and PlayStation 4. It also includes the competitive season which finishes on 1st August. In this content-packed season, Sky-Masters divide themselves among fourteen facedown over the final two weeks of the season. Players must find the right amount of inspiration and strategy to be awarded with the title of Season (or S) Champion, and more competitive rewards than ever before. In the Gladiator Multiplayer Pack, players find a new Trait they can add to a current trait lineup during the season. The Unwind trait lets the Trait Specific Abilities for the Gladiator trait function more like general special actions for all Traits in the game. This means Special Abilities, Skill Bonuses, Ransoms and those amazing Trait Specific cooldowns remain the same no matter which Trait you choose, as long as you've Unwinded. Allowing players the chance to introduce the Trait Specific abilities of their Gladiator Trait to the overall Trait mechanics within the game in various new ways. The Unwind trait offers three different effects to choose from when you choose what three of the new (and old) Trait Specific Abilities to unlock. Picking three Trait Specific Abilities has the effect of unlocking their associated Glyphs for all Traits from that point forward. Unwind also adds the Trait Specific Abilities unlocked to the appropriate Trait Glyph Slots, allowing you to unlock their Glyphs by simply touching your device to use them. Players will be able to carry three of these effects over to their profile with Unwind as they swap through Traits and unlock new

Glyph Slots. Up to three of these abilities may be chosen from the Trait Specific Effects available for Unwind. These can be chosen by pressing the dedicated Live and KI Unwind button on the Trait UI. The three abilities available to unlock through Un
