Computer and Application Basics Before you install Adobe Photoshop Elements, you need to be familiar with different software/application programs. You should know how to save a document, open a document, check the file size, lock a file, and close a document. While not being required, below is a quick tutorial on computer basics to get you started. Saving Files: Saving files on the computer allows you to store and/or print copies of the file on any computer. Open your original file in the software that you are editing it in. Open the file into a new document. Save the document in the new document. Back up files regularly to avoid mistakes. In the "File" menu, you can save your file as a JPEG image, GIF image, or PDF. Checking File Size: Saving a file takes up a lot of space and/or memory on your computer. If you have an old computer or limited hard drive space, you may want to delete files that you don't need or use. Here's a great free application that works with PDFs, Microsoft Office 2007, Adobe Photoshop Elements as well as other file types. In the Help menu, open the FileSize.exe file. Save the program on your computer. Double-click the program to open. Before you check the size of a file, just open the file. Hover over the file and click Open. You can add more files in the File Size dialog box. The File Size will display the file sizes. Select a file and click the "Open" button. Select "Close" to close the File Size window. Locking files: "Locking" a file allows other people to view the file but prevents them from editing it. Use the same method as you used to save the file. Open the file in the software that you are editing it in. Click the "Lock" button on the top right-hand corner of the software. Enter your password. Close the file. Application Versions: Adobe Photoshop Elements have different versions depending on your computer and your needs. Lightroom is a similar program to Photoshop. Adobe Lightroom 4 is a cloud 388ed7b0c7

Q: Yii2-bootstrap contact form I am trying to create a contact form using bootstrap and yii2-widget, but I am having problems with the tabs working. my view.php file is as follows: `field($model, 'name');?> field($model, 'email');?> field($model, 'message');?> field($model, 'submit');?> 'btn btn-default']?>` It displays the correct fields but when I send the form, it does not send the email address that I put into the field. I know that this is probably nothing to do with Yii2 and more so PHP but the examples I have seen are soooooo confusing with Yii2. I have included bootstrap in my view like this: `title = 'Contact Form';?> breadcrumbs = ['Contact'];?> notify = ['title' => 'Contact Us', 'sender' => 'email', 'body' => 'email'];?> render('_form');?>` Then, in my actions.php file I have the following for the contact submit: `public function actionEmail() { $data = new Application\ContactForm; $data->attributes = []; if ($this->validate()) { $model = new Application\ContactEmail; $model->contact = $data; $model->message = $data->message; if ($model->save()) {`

Q: `libstdc++6-4.4.7-3ubuntu11` package has no installation candidate When I try to install `libstdc++6-4.4.7-3ubuntu11`, it says no installation candidate. I am using 64-bit Ubuntu GNOME 16.04. I tried installing `libstdc++6-4.4-dev`, `libstdc++6-4.4-doc`, `libstdc++6-4.4-dev-doc`, `libstdc++-4.9-dev`, `libstdc++-4.9-doc` and everything else I found googling but still not working. A: I had the same problem and in that case I just downloaded the source, searched for the error message in the source and eventually found the answer. `gcc-4.9-doc.tar.gz` The cause of the problem: In the source, the line `#include "stlport/stlport.h"` is commented out. You can fix it by running a sed command in the source. I wrote the command for you to run in a terminal. Just replace all instances of gcc in the lines with this: `sed -i's/^#include`
