Poroshenko's statement came amid a military operation carried out by the Ukrainian army against the so-called "Donetsk People's Republic". According to Poroshenko, it is the "first step in ensuring the security of the Donbass region." It seems as if Poroshenko is taking a step in an effort to avoid a potentially explosive conflict with Russia over eastern Ukraine. However, the announcement is not a surprise, and experts say it is an attempt to reinstate the Minsk peace agreement on the Russian-Ukrainian conflict and to avoid a new war. The ceasefire has been in place since September 5. However, the security situation around the Ukrainian border has been worsening and the OSCE monitoring mission in Ukraine has witnessed several violations. The situation in Ukraine is in turmoil, with both sides accusing each other of violating the ceasefire. Poroshenko also said that he had asked the UN Security Council to implement the Minsk agreement. With the US presidential elections approaching, many Americans are still confused about what it is about Donald Trump that makes him so popular with Republican base voters. For surely if he were really as unpopular as some polls seem to indicate, the Republican leadership would have ignored him and not even held a
