Space Voyager Features Key:

- Six challenging, unique levels, with beautifully scored music.
- Use the wooden spikes and spirits to fight your way through the forest.
- Use the wooden spike and weapons against great bosses.
- The spooky forest has hidden secrets... ..and an icy dungeon.

Select supported languages Arabic, Azerbaijani, Belarusian, Bulgarian, Croatian, Czech, Estonian, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hungarian, Israeli, Latvian, Lithuanian, Macedonian, Mongolian, Norwegian, Polish, Romanian, Serbian, Slovak, Slovenian, Spanish, Swedish, Turkish, Ukrainian, Vietnamese. A's Helping You Through The Forest

Hold A to remove the wooden spire and use C for your wooden stick.

There are four types of enemies: Thunderclaws, Lumberjacks, Buzzes and Dark spirits.

Lumberjacks always eat the wood you need to construct a weapon. Try to beat them first before their powerful attacks.

Thunderclaws dive at you with their long spikes. When the thunderclaw is hit, it explodes. Use this to your advantage.

A Buzz can fly into your food and steal it. You can stop it eating by hitting its head.

One hit kills you! If the spire is destroyed, you're dead. Use your weapons and strike fast!

If the enemy survives a strike, they won't attack you until the spire gets destroyed.

If you hit the ice ball, a chunk of ice will drop.

Most weapons have unlimited uses, but when they're used up, they break.

You will see hints if you have an unsolved puzzle.

What's new:

, propedeuticius The first 10 files are the 37th soundtrack from the movie Spong (1989), with music by Manuel De Vroeck & Arno Kroese and directed by Kees de Vries, that I made with Gordon Jennings (one of the so-called ‘supernumeraries’). The rest of the files are a project I did with Leo Deliens and Peanut Vandenberg. The parameters were: the sound of the hematic iron core of blood that is cardiogenic shock; the particularity of wigs on the emersion of these men; the physicality of the patients; the literal sense of blood corpus, the colored sign; the almost machine-like sensorial dynamics of the medical intervention on the bodies; the music of the scene: the chamber music of the screenplay, instrumental and vocal. I included the sound image of a doctor’s phrases: he is like a machine because he is like a component in the operation; synthesized sounds; sometimes the buzzing of a light touch; the sound of a sheet, of a balancer, of electrodes. Rigid sensorimotor functions, form and space. Anesthesia, anesthesia of the image, of the sound. The files are released by Archive.org as free online download, with the help of a grant from the library of the Institute of Design and Architecture of Louvain-la-Neuve. The files are saved in MP3 format, ideal for quick download, for the purpose of regular use. You can easily transfer the files using the standard plugins for Firefox or Explorer, or from removable media such as USB sticks or CD-RW discs, to a personal hard drive, in order to download them on a remote machine at work, without a connection. The soundtrack is part of a series of works called Spong (1989). It was one of the first soundtracks made with Gordon Jennings (the beat and programming), that gave rise to a group called ‘SuperNumeraries’ (the first three personalities were Gordon Jennings, Leo Deliens, and Peanut Vandenberg), which worked for DV. We collaborated on many projects afterward. Spong (1989) by Kees de Vries and Gordon Jennings The Spong soundtrack: 00:00 sound of the hematocrit value that weighs the amount of blood in the human body. A low hematocrit value means that the volume of the red cell
