Hanewin Nfs Server 1.2.7.Q: How to create index for case statement I am trying to figure out a way to create an index for a case statement. I want to know if there is a way to create an index with case statement which will speed up the process when a row is added or deleted. The scenario is my table looks like this and case When EXISTS (SELECT * FROM SomeTable) Then 0 else 1 end as flag The rows are updated/added from the first state then any change is ignored if there is already existing data. The existing data (when row number 1 is already inserted) is updated, but for the new data in case statement will always be 0. A: Test for the existence of a index. IF EXISTS (SELECT * FROM some_table WITH (INDEX (... index here...))) BEGIN -- do stuff END You can create a clustered index on the flag column as well. (It is an INT NOT NULL). A:

You could create a clustered index, if I understand your use case, so it would always show the correct value. CREATE TABLE YourTable (ID INT NOT NULL, KeyCol VARCHAR(20), FlagCol BIT NULL) CREATE CLUSTERED INDEX IDX_YourTable_KeyCol ON YourTable(ID, KeyCol) GO UPDATE If what you're after is faster retrieval and less data needing to be updated due to index changing, you can add a filtered index to the clustered index (this is more efficient than a single e79caf774b
