Spiders are wonderful creatures. They play a vital role in food chains, they nest in tree branches and travel great distances in search of food and mates. Spider silk is used in making aeronautic cables. The spider's web is a masterpiece of engineering. Not only does it float in the air like an umbrella, but it is also wet. Spider silk can trap an insect and eventually kill it. In this screensaver you will see a microscopic spider weaving a web in the branches of a large tree. The animation is impressive, if you consider the small size of the spider. This screensaver comes with background music. You can select the speed of the music and change the volume, if you like. Please note that this is a

For example: hello is 34 but the large number in the string is 42, how do I find that? I'm trying this code: public static int largestNumber(String[] numbers){ int maximum = -1; for (int i = 0; i maximum){ maximum = numbers[i]; } } return maximum; } However the output will be 33 not 42 because the array only goes up to 32. A: You have to use an array where the max values will be stored : int[] maxValues = new int[]{0, 0, 0}; String[] numbers = new String[]{"13", "2", "2"}; for(int i=0; i
