A 53-year-old woman developed partial small intestinal obstruction which was controlled by establishing a decompressive ileostomy. On re-examination she developed further symptoms and on laparotomy was found to have ischemic colitis and ulceration of the sigmoid colon. The overlying mucosa was divided and this area removed. A closed decompressive loop colostomy was then created. It is considered that the development of ischemic colitis in this instance was secondary to antecedent thrombosis of an inferior mesenteric artery. The development of ischemic colitis following primary thromboembolism has been reported infrequently. This case illustrates the need to consider ischemic colitis as a cause of acute abdominal symptoms.Judge orders husband to dig up old yarn stores and rebuild A New York county judge has ordered a man to dig up his wife's old thrift stores and antique stores and build a new one or face the possibility of losing his family home and assets in a divorce settlement. Judge Rosalyn Richter ordered Steven Chiang to pay his wife, Linda, $1.5 million if the stores don't exist within 45 days. The judge ruled that Chiang had to provide proof that the stores have been abandoned before the deadline or face losing his investments. The newly built stores would then become the responsibility of Chiang's ex-wife to make up the equity. Chiang founded the clothing store, Shipped, which was initially started in Manhattan. e79caf774b

A new colorimetric method for the determination of trace amounts of terbium in aqueous solution is presented. The method is based on the reaction of terbium with 4-(p-toluidino)-5-aminonaphthalene-1-sulfonic acid (1,5-TNS) in the presence of excess $Tb(3+)$ and the formation of a colored complex of terbium with 1,5-TNS. The ratio of terbium to 1,5-TNS was fixed to 1:2. The absorbance of the terbium/1,5-TNS complex was measured at 520 nm and its concentration was determined spectrophotometrically from the Beer's law plot. The optimal condition for the determination of terbium was established by using of the experimental design method. Under the optimal conditions, linearity was achieved in the range of 0.08-2.0 microg ml(-1) (r>0.9901) and the detection limit was 0.01 microg ml(-1). The proposed method was applied for the determination of terbium in natural water.By Patrick Martin The United States government's top economic official, Lawrence Summers, floated the possibility of another modest round of quantitative easing to help counter the impact of the coronavirus on the American economy, a policy that many commentators have called for. In an interview to air this evening on ABC News, Summers, who recently retired as President Obama's top economic adviser, said the size of the next round of monetary stimulus could be downsized to $50 billion or less in order to avoid slowing the economy. "The question was asked,
