the Twelve Colonies. This new campaign takes place roughly eight years after the Battlestar Galactica TV series finale; the setting of the game corresponds to the timeframe of Deadlock. Changes Made from Deadlock: The campaign now has a new storyline, but it also features a brand new ending to Deadlock. In Sin and Sacrifice, "The Fall of Cylon" we witness the final moment in the Cylon War. We witness the surrender of the Colonies as Admiral Lucinda Cain and her fleet destroy the last of the Cylon Centurions. Sin and Sacrifice is a brand-new story that takes place after Deadlock. This first story arc of the Season 2 is the true conclusion to the Cylon war, and takes place after the final battle in the end of Season 1. Changes Made in Deadlock (after the ending of Sin and Sacrifice): Having one story arc concluded and another in the works is a first in the Battlestar Galactica universe. The plot is fully integrated into the playable storyline and the story arcs will be the same length as that of Deadlock. Sin and Sacrifice concludes the story arc at 21 missions. We continue to explore the characters and world of the Battlestar Galactica universe, and the the story arcs follow the direction of Deadlock. 20 new unique story missions, with new dialogue and cutscenes. 26 new voicelines throughout all theatres of battle. 10 new player images, including one new artwork image of Lucinda Cain. This game will cost $14.99 US / $19.99 CAN. We look forward to hearing your feedback, and how Deadlock's story continues to mold together over the course of Season 2. hypothetical:) Let's discuss it a bit further:) I have had 11T service since 1999-2000 and I have quite a bit of experience with ~3000 days of weather data. Every year we compare roughly ~400 days for the first 3 months of next year against the same data for the same 3 months of previous year, and regardless weather you like it or not, in 4 out of 5 years at least one line was in error. About a year ago couple, living under my roof, had it and they lost 20 years of information. The most common data entry issue that we have is in case you load a line without specifying time for the 6/8/12 hours:) It could be very large offset, or you wouldn't be surprised if the minute was zero and the hour was 99-26-11 like that:) Also in case your WX data is transported from a remote station, operators sometimes loaded an incorrect time stamp because of typos and mistake and sometimes it is saved as 8:17:00:01, in reality 8:17:00:01 should be 10:17:00:01 right?. The other common problem with records from remote stations is dates, as our remote station is online 2 days a week and sometimes this may not match the period of one day. As the previous would suggest, if operators don't get stamps marked with "L.R. Pesatoro" in the data that they are working with, they can't
