At a weight of 30 pounds, this is an impressive feat. The fact that Carmelita managed to achieve this sort of feat at all is an even bigger miracle. Many of the issues these dogs commonly suffer from, like difficulty walking, hind leg weakness and bad hips, all come from a lack of exercise. Carmelita is being cared for at the Carmelite Canines Rescue in West Virginia. "Carmelita is a she/he, 100% black and white female with a very vocal voice," reads the shelter's description on their Facebook page. "She is a 50/50 pit bull/Rottweiler mixture and looking for an owner who can love her like no other." As you can imagine, Carmelita is no limber dog. In order to exercise her, you can pull and push her - not too gently. She also has some trouble getting around, and it's impossible to have a normal interaction with this dog without leaving your couch. The pup will sit on your lap, but that's about it. These shelter dogs have been extensively tested to make sure they are healthy and able to eventually go to a home.
