There are limited data about the impact of pregnancy and radiofrequency catheter ablation (RFCA) on the success of RFCA for atrial fibrillation (AF). The objective of this study was to evaluate the safety of RFCA during pregnancy. We retrospectively analyzed data of 61 patients who underwent AF ablation between January 2003 and June 2008. Thirty-three patients had paroxysmal, 17 had persistent, and 11 had long-standing persistent AF. Mean follow-up was 12.5 +/- 7.3 months (range, 3 to 24 months) after RFCA. Twenty-six (42.3%) patients had a previous history of AF

(AP) — The nation's most powerful business group said Wednesday it's "deeply troubled" by the Obama administration's proposal to raise fuel economy standards for the nation's auto fleet, and it said it still expects to see fuel economy requirements strengthened. As President Barack Obama urged U.S. automakers to agree on a single corporate goal for fuel economy, General Motors Co. and Chrysler Group LLC instead brokered a deal that increases annual fuel-efficiency requirements over the next six years by a total of 10 percent. The National Automobile Dealers Association said it favors the agreement, but contends that an expanded program "cannot occur overnight and will require collaboration with government officials and other stakeholders." The group says it believes a voluntary program is the best way to encourage automakers to make the switch to more fuel-efficient vehicles and says it has not given up on raising fuel standards at the federal level. But it appears that Chrysler and GM have given more ground to the White House than the group wanted. The auto industry has long maintained that fuel economy requirements set by Congress in 1975 6d1f23a050
