F&S Cooper Technologies, Inc., an industry leader in high performance analog, mixed signal and power supply design, is pleased to announce the immediate availability of the new V2 EVM 8-core SoC, offering custom architecture, design flexibility, and advanced, high performance power management. This new, unique product provides a wide range of front side bus, memory and peripheral interfaces, as well as fast programmable clock and supply. The EVM8 offers two data serial interfaces with native DDR3 memory, allowing it to be used as a standalone FPGA core. The EVM8 supports 256M DDR3, the fastest I/O possible for a SoC powered by a standard 32-bit ARM architecture CPU. The EVM8 also has four ADCs, two DACs, and an MMC/SD memory controller. The product also offers an embedded 68-pin regulator, a high speed PCIe interface, and a PCI Gen2 or Gen3 based interface. The EVM8 offers the most flexible and open architecture for a higher performance SoC solution with complete options and flexibility. Memory may be mapped to any of the three system busses in the EVM8. Power management features include user defined clock and supply configurations, DDR3/SDRAM frequency adjustment for each core, and provides 32 VCI power domains. The EVM8 is pin and package compatible with the EVM7 and provides software and hardware development partners with ready to use standard libraries and documentation. Also included with the new EVM8, is the ability to turn the ARM Cortex-A53 CPU off entirely and use one of the EVM8 cores instead. Using the EVM8 as a general purpose SOC core is extremely flexible allowing it to be a variety of different products. The EVM8 has been designed for original equipment manufacturer (OEM) products including tablet and smartphone systems. It offers industry leading performance and high-volume and extreme applications with the flexibility to customize the EVM8 for a wide range of products.
