LnA is one of the four glutamate receptors mediating the excitatory effects of glutamate. LnA is activated by glial-derived S-nitrosylated N-acetyl-D- aspartate (NAD+). This ligand-receptor interaction is impaired by the inactive nitrated derivative S-nitroso-N-acetyl-D-aspartate (GSNO), as well as by reactive nitrogen species such as peroxynitrite and nitric oxide, as well as by the thiol-reactive oxidant derivatives S-nitrosoglutathione (GSNO) and S-nitrosoglutathione reduced thiyl radical (GSNO3). LnA is widely expressed in the brain and in spinal cord. References External links
