James Clavell is one of the most prominent authors of the 20th century. He is considered one of the best authors of the Asian Saga, the novel that deals with the identity of a person who is different from the one you know in a wild setting. His books explore the themes of inner strength, family ties and the relationship of individuals with their environments. Shogun is his most famous work and along with Tai-Pan, King Rat, Noble House, as well as other books, it has been adapted for the big and small screen. James Clavell came to prominence in the 1950s, with bestsellers such as King Rat, Tai-Pan and Noble House. His other works include Gai-jin, Shōgun, Shinobi, Whirlwind, Dragon's Marrow, The Samurai and Valor, and The Noble House. James Clavell was born on 20 June 1921 at Gorranwyth, a Royal Naval barracks in Pembrokeshire, South Wales. His father, James Leslie Clavell was a Royal Naval officer, and his mother, Elizabeth (née Emms) was the daughter of an engineer in the Royal Navy. James Clavell was educated at the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth and at the Royal Naval College, Greenwich, where he studied languages. A graduate of the Royal Naval College, Dartmouth, he became an officer in the Royal Artillery, a regular commissioned officer, between 1942 and 1944, during World War II. He served on various ships during this period, including the Formidable, the flagship, and the African Victory, the first British ship of the war to visit a Japanese port. When the war ended, Clavell was captured by the Japanese and spent two years as a POW in China, after which he was taken to Japan in 1945 to serve the Empire.
