Universal Watermark Remover

the universal watermark remover has an easy to use interface. in the settings window, you can quickly see the length of time the watermark will be displayed, as well as whether or not the watermark should be displayed on the boot screen. to activate the application, simply click on the 'start' button, and you will be presented with a screen that contains a list of your windows installation. press the 'add' button and the universal watermark remover will begin scanning your computer for windows installations. once it has found the windows installations, it will display the name and details of each windows installation on your computer. you can then select which installation you want to remove the watermark from. at this point, you will be presented with the 'remove watermark' button. you simply need to click the button and the universal watermark remover will begin removing the watermark from your windows installation. when the process is complete, the universal watermark remover will display a success message and will not display the watermark anymore. if you have installed windows on an ssd drive, you will notice that the process of removing the watermark takes quite a bit of time. this is due to the fact that there is no access to the ssd's read-write cache, and the universal watermark remover will need to go to the drive and access every single file on the ssd. if you want to save your windows installation, you will need to shut down the computer before the process of removing the watermark is complete. the universal watermark remover is an easy to use freeware application. the only limitation that the application has is that it cannot remove the watermark from non-windows installations of windows, such as linux. 5ec8ef588b
