download the tracks from the url. if youre playing individual tracks instead of the entire playlist as i recommend, you can download them without the accompanying id3 tags. just put an ampersand after the url. so if the url is <http://example.com/example.mp3>, just put & after the url. you will need to copy the url, paste it into a new window, delete the url, and replace it with &. then, open a new tab in your browser window and paste in the final url (minus the ampersand). uncheck the box for the track title and put a space for the track description. you can change the 3 different fields as you see fit. i leave those same. upload the songs to a folder. if youre ordering the songs by title, i recommend labeling each song title starting with the corresponding track number. however, in box, there is no way to set an order like you can in a soundcloud playlist. by default, its in order of updated date. so i recommend uploading the songs in reverse order. but, you can not rearrange them once uploaded. huge pain in the ass. but if you name the song titles starting with the track number, you can sort by name (but when sending the link out, the recipient will see the updated order by default). lame! download the tracks from the url. if youre playing individual tracks instead of the entire playlist as i recommend, you can download them without the accompanying id3 tags. just put an ampersand after the url. so if the url is <http://example.com/example.mp3>, just put & after the url. you will need to copy the url, paste it into a new window, delete the url, and replace it with &. then, open a new tab in your browser window and paste in the final url (minus the ampersand).
